CHEPMAN ASHERS, Smelter and Refiner of Gold, Silver, Copper and Lead, YS lately arrived from Germany, where he has been employed as fuch, in feveral finelting and refining works, and particularly those of the Elector of Saxony.

He proposes to smelt, separate, and refine, in this, or any of the neighbouring colonies, the above mentioned metals, from any ore delivered to him for that purpose, and promifes to fave to per cent, of the expense usually paid by the Americans, who send their ore to England to be fmelted or refined there. But then the works must be erected near a navigable river, and in a part of the country where there is a great plenty of wood for making charcoal. If any gentlemen incline to employ the faid Afhers in that capacity, he doubts not his giving full fatisfaction respecting his abilities and charafter. He is determined not to contract for a falary, but a share in the produce of the works, which, if undertaken, will be the first of the kind carried on in North-America, and must prove highly beneficial. For further particulars inquire of bimfelf, at Mr. Samuel Ifrael's, in Little Dock Street.

MILAN, December 1. The had successed the known of Crimen's enterprise on that penintula, and add, that after the defeat of his fleet, he had been obliged to retire to Constantinople," public, there remains nothing but to fettle our future form of Government, which, by as follows to project and the select parties .

virtue of their places, to be of the perma- neers, authorifing them to allow count

nent Council, but may be regarded as Senators, and in this quality may be eligible to be Members of that Council.

V. The King shall give up all right to conferring of Starofties.

VI. All the Members of the permanent Council shall be chose by the Diet. This, if agreed to, will fettle fome matters. but many more remain to be fettled. Der 9. Prince Poniatewiki, the King's brother, has refigned his office of Grand Chamberlain, and the command of the regiment of horse-guards of the Crown; in both which employments Count Potocki fucceeds him.

Amfterdam, Dec. 23. By advices from Conftantinople we learn, that the Grand Vizier, without waiting for any reinforcements, put his army in motion the 6th of last month, and marched with Mahomet's flandard for Basarzick, in order to dislodge the enemy from that place; which news causes great uneafiness at the Porte, as the fate of Bulgaria depends on the fuccess of that enterprife.

Marfaw, Dec. 23. Private letters from the ariny of Field Marshal Count de Romanzow, dated the 29th of last month, and received here this day, announce, that the Russians have taken the fortress of Silifria by ftorm. We wait with impatience the arrival of the courier who is to bring a confirmation of this important conquest, which secures to the Raffians winter quarters on the other fide of the Danube, and opens to them a free road to Adrianople.

Utrecht, Dec. 31. France demands the flitutition of fome thips feized in the West Indies, and at Newfoundland laft fummer, of the Lordin Admiralty. On other hand, fimilar complaints have been made to the Court of Spain, on account of its fobjects feizing fome English fhips in the West Indies, which the King of Spain has promifed, after enquiry, to fettle in the most amicable manner.

Amfterdam, Jan. 3. The last letters from Madrid give a most melancholy description of the town of Guatimala. They fay that the wretched inhabitants are dispersed in the fields without subsistence, or even a drop of water to quench their thirft, inasmuch as the shocks of the earthquake had slopped up the aqueducts and fountains, and rendered the roads totally impassable. The damage canfed by this difaster is estimated at 40 millions; that is to fay, that fuch a fum will at least be required to put every thing upon the ancient footing.

LOND Dec. 25. Yefterday morning the fcrutineers for the Lord Mayor and Mr. Roberts met as Guildhall; Mr. Robert's scrutineers had retained Mr. Serjeant Davy and Mr. Bearcroft, but the Sheriffs refusing to admit the Exterierence of counsel, Mr. Roberts's friends would not proceed on the ferutiny, but left the fall, declaring that they should feel redrefs in another place. After this the Sheriffs opened their Court of Huftings, and immediately adjourned to the Court of King's Bench. where Mr. Roberts and his forundeers were with the ufual form called to attend to the ferntiny; but none of them appeared. Then the Lord Mayor and his Warfew, Dec. S. The treaty being Byn forotineers were called; all his ferutineers ed between the Three Powers and this Reseattended; but Mr. Alderman Wilkes, in attended ; but Mr. Alderman Wilkes, in the name of the whole, faid, that as Mr. Roberts's scrutineers did not attend, they a memoir delivered by the Ministers of the should not offer objections to any of his above Three Powers, is faid to be modeled votes; upon which the Sheriffs adjourned to Friday at ten o'clock, and gave notice, that conferring all at eleven o'clock precifely they should declare the numbers apon the poll.

Another account fays, that Mr. Serjeant guard shall be black for the safety of his Davy applied to the Sheriffs to know wheMajelly's person, as the Republic's expense, the they would admit Council for Mr.

Yesterday about half an hour after eleven o'clock, a Court of Hustings was held at Guildhall for the Sheriffs to make a declaration on whom the election fell to represent thit City in Parliament, in the room of the late Sir Robert Ladbroke; when the Sheriffs made the report that the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor had a majority of 214 votes, and they declared him duly elected; on which the Lord Mayor came to the front of the Hustings, and addressed the Livery to the following purport t " Gentlemen of the Livery.

" I beg leave to return you my fincere thanks for the great additional honours I now receive, not fo much on my account, as for the fake of the public cause, and the prefervation of your own independency.

" I can declare to you with the utmost truth, that I have used no untair methods, nor exerted any undue influent: to fuceced in this election : I owe the honour of being one of the representatives of this capital to the free and unbiassed voice of my fellowcitizens, which I shall alway remember with gratitude.

" Gentlemen, I can only add to the former public declarations I have made, that I promise you a faithful and diligent attendance in Parliament, and the most respectful deference to the opinion of my conflituents."

Dec. 28. A letter from Dansie, dated Dec. 4, mentions, that the King of Prusia has just iffued an edict in all his dominions, that no merchant shall in future buy iron at Dantzick, but from the Pruffian company, which monopolizes that commodity; as they are to have it at the same price from the company as usual at Dantzick. This new injury greatly alarms them. The Elector of Bavaria has edict, inflicting death on any one who shall give or accept a challenge.

It is faid that in the enfuing fellions of Parliament a petition will be presented by a body of Scotch merchants, for excluding the Dutch, and other foreigners, from fifting on the coasts of Orkney or Shetland; or fubjecting them to a duty for each vellel employed on the faid fifteries.

Jan. 1. We hear that a difference has lately arisen between the present and the late Premier, in consequence of which much entertainment is expected the ensuing Sessions of Parliament, and many State Secrets are expected to be discovered in the opposition of each other.

They write from Petersburgh, that notwithstanding the great victories which of late have been gained by the Russian troops, yet they continue prefling and inrolling men in all her Imperial Majesty's dominions; and that a fresh army of 100,000 men will be able to take the field by next fpring.

They write from Elfineur, that fince the 11th of December, two Russian frigates of war, and four transports, had passed the Sound, in order to join the squadron in the Mediterranean. As the ice was very thick in the Sound, as well as near Cronstadt, no more Ruffian thips were expected this feafon; but we are informed, that no less than 24 pretty large veffels are upon the flocks at the different fea ports and harbours in the Ruffran dominions, all which are expected to be launched towards the fpring.

Extract of a letter from his Majesty's ship Raven, in the Mediterranean.

"We are now bound express to the Admiral, at Mahon; we have been off Algiers with the Alarm, which thip is immediately failing with the Conful to England. The Algerines feem determined to commit hoftilities; if fo, they will greatly annoy the trade before we can prevent them."

Jan. 3. A private letter from Warlaw fays, that matters are becoming very ferious there; the commerce of Poland, which hitherto was hardly thought of by the different mercantile flates of Europe, becomes at prefent a matter of uncommon importance to them, but by all probability that commerce will remain free from the usurpation of their neighbour ; for it is not only Great Britain and Holland, and other maritime powers, who highly interest themselves in the cause of the cities of Dantzick and Thorn, and the free navigation of the Vif-Pruffia: but even his own alliances, Austria and Russia, infist upon the independency of that neeigable river, as tending to the greatof those provinces of Poland in their policion. This letter adds, that the King of Policid has very long and frequent conferences with the Austrian and Russian Ministers there, but very seldom with the Pruffian Minister; and that on the 19th inft. when the fitting of the delegates began 4. gain, the latter delivered a note to them, infilling in the name of his royal maker, to have the only and extrasive right to fell falt in Poland and Lithusqia, and to prohibit all foreign falt, but the Delegates have delivered that note to the Ruffian and Auftrian Ministers, in order to acquaint their respective Courts with that new infelence: and that the Republic implores those two Courts, who, by the treaty just figned, obliged themfelves (by the annexed articles) to guarantee the free exercise of the Republic; and therefore they hope to have their free choice in this, as well as in every article, to purchase it where it is more convenient for them. In the mean time, they have great affurance given to them, by almost every foreign Minister there, that their commerce will be protected against the violent attacks of the King of Pruffia.

There is a report that the King of Prudia has established some considerable magazines of military flores at Thorn; if thefe accounts are true, they fill prove the certainty of fome new intended scheme by that

Monarch. They write from Marfeilles, that the Ruffian fquadron which cruifes between the the illands of Zante, Corfu, and Raguia, has fomething more in view than to examine all the velicis passing and repassing these gulphs and feas; and that it is greatly apprehended they will take possession of all those three islands, in order to make use of that political right to act on the offentive, before it is too late to act on the defensive. If this proves true, it will certainly not pais unnoticed by some of the maritime powers, who watch the deps of Rullia with the utmost jealousy. By advices from Poland we learn, that one of the high patritioning powers by its emidaries fecretly favours the growing confederacies, whose efforts to recover their independence, as it will furnish matter of fresh complaint, will give an opening for yet farther encroachments upon the Republic. It is faid his Danish Malesty is advised to take another tour for the benefit of his health, which is lately much impaired; and is to leave the Queen Dowager Regent of the kingdom during his absence.

It is faid, that very fhortly the Right Rev. the Bilhops, together with the clergy of their respective dioceses, intend to and humbly to befeech his Majefty, that he would be graciously pleased no longer (as the custom has now been for half a century and upwards) to proregue the Upper, and Lower Houses of Convocation, but to fuffer them to fit and refume their functions ; to revive the liturgy and thirty nine articles of the Church of England; to amend and explain what is amife or wanting in them, and to do their best endeavours to put a stop to that infidelity, profanenels, and immorality. perjury, bribery, and corruption, which fo much infeft all ranks and orders of men, from the highest to the lowest; that without a fincere repentance, and a thorough reformation, must draw down the fiercest of God's judgments upon this finful nation.

A letter from Cadix fays, the mifunderstanding between England and her colonies is a matter of serious attention both in this kingdom and the Spanish Governments in America. If a reconciliation does not foon en/ue the Family Compact will avail itself of the disputes.

Jan. 4. It is imagined Parliament will compel all carriages to have the new invented hoop fellies, which fave three fourths of the timber now confumed, were it not for the inventor's having obtained a patent .-Surely it is better for Parliament at once to give at once five or ten thousand pounds for this most excellent improvement, than to fuffer the nation to lose one hundred thousand pounds a year for fourteen years to come. Jan. 5. 'Till' it was reported fo univerfally that the filver coin would undergo an examination, government never thought any thing about it; but now, it feems, the public will not be difappointed in their expectations. However, the plan for regulating the filver is not yet absolutely settled.

When the new filver coinage is fettled, the general opinion is, that the value of what is now called a guinea, will be fixed at twenty two fhillings.

A correspondent says the invincible obstinacy of a city candidate, in demanding a forutiny, in the very five of fo respectable a majority as 214; is amazing as his ridi-culous demand of council was provoking; on the conclusion of the ferutiny on the great contested election between Bofworth and Selwyn, the majority, femall as it was, floor m before ; what in the name of common feate our Mr. R—— expect to do with the sandred and fourteen? he must be possibled with an ancommon there of felf-complainance, to suppose that that the forutiny continued, he should have annihilated them all; or what each he man by affronting the public understanding; in continuing to solit the information of his felicula concerning unqualified votes? are we to suppose that all the built water arrived Mr. Rail's pofe that all the ball votes are on Mr. Bull's fide, and none on his own ? at any rate, fuch a conduct feems out a precarious recommendation of him on a future occasion. Jan. 6. It is talked, that our Ambasiador at Conftantinople, has been given to understand, that the Porte cannot look on English as neutral, feeing they give every affiliance that is asked by the Rustians, in vicinalling, and furnishing with every necesfary the Ruffian men of war, without which that power would not have been able to commit fuch hostile acts, by fen and hand as they have done.

The following Lords in the Irish House of Parliament, have protested against the bill for enabling Roman Catholics to lend money upon mortgages: Inchiquin, Shan-non, Kinghon, Richard, Armagh, J. Du-blin, Miltown, R. Killaloe and Kilfenora, Lifle, Eyre, Ely, Wm. Limerick, Charles Cloyne, Powerscourt, Baltinglass. J. Leigh ten and Ferns, C. Offory by proxy, Ifaac Cork and Rofs, Wm. Drumore.

They write from Madrid, that farther accounts of damages done by the late earthquakes in South America, have been re-

A correspondent says, "Yesterday morning the Thames afforded a most beautiful profped from the top of Arundel ftreet, Surry fireet, and the other avenues on that fide of the Strand. The morning being rather hazy, the fun reflected a light upon the river, not unlike that fiery brightness with which the radia of a fetting fun tinges the clouds. The river was almost covered with huge pieces of ice, which floated on its furface, like so many pieces of red hot metal spreading themselves out. In short, the whole resembled the infide of an enormous furnace. A large bank of ice which lay on the Surry fide, exactly facing Arundel ftreet, appeared like a large flame of fire, and reflected innumerable colours." A writer, treating on the liberty of the prefs, has the following observations : " I have lately observed in the papers feveral letters relative to the votes which lately passed in the Court of Common Council, on inflammatory and abusive paragraphs, and the liberty of the press; but as I do not perfectly agree with the writers on either fide of the question, I shall take the liberty of making a few remarks on the subject .-It appears to me that the Common Council acted very right in centuring the faile and fourfilous paragraphs which were published sinft the late Lord Mayor; which were I believe generally condemned by equitable and candid men of all parties. But at the fame time, I think it was rather injudicious to introduce any paffage in their votes, which might be confirued into a reflection against the liberty of the prefs; as the abulive paragraphs against Mr. Townsend might have been cenfered in the ftrongest terms, without any thing of this kind. And there was the greater impropriety in this, because it was even then talked of, that a defign was forming to lay fome new restraints upon the prefs; and the real friends to national freedom should be cautious of appearing to countenance in the most diffant manner, fo pernicious and deteftable a project.

" Notwithstanding what I have faid relative to the votes referred to, and though I think one passage in them was exceptionable, yet I have no doubt but the majority of that Court of Common Council by which they were passed; were men well affected to the cause of their country; and should any iniquitous design really be formed against the press, I hope they will heartily join with the rest of their countrymen in its defence; and give the most incontestible evidence, that though they disapprove of its abuse, yet they will not tamely fuffer it on that account to be wrested from us. " It should be remembered, that it is impossible that any considerable degree of liberty can be enjoyed, without some danger of licentiousnels; and we may be affured, that whenever a defign is formed to enflave us, it will be under the pretence of suppressing licentiousness, But let us not be deceived by any fuch fuggestions. There is hardly any benefit, advantage, or bleffing we enjoy, which is not liable to abuse; but would we therefore wish to be deprived of them? It is admitted, that the liberty of the press may be abused; so may the best gifts of nature and of forture; but they do not therefore ceafe to be valuable. No temporal felicity is unattended with some inconveniencies: but if there be any Englishman who thinks liberty not to be worth defending, because it is fometimes accompanied with licentiousness, he ought to be fent into Turkey or Siberia, till he learns to fet a just value upon the bleflings of freedom.

" Lord Mansfield, as well as every other lawyer in the kingdom, is abundantly conviaced, that there are already a sufficient number of legal refraints upon the prets .-If it be licentious, let thefe be made use of. But he who shall attempt to procure new laws against the prefs, must be an enemy to this country, and will be justly entitled to of the prefs is confidered even by fereigners, as one of the noblest privileges we enjoy; and an ingenious French writer has lately lish government to restrain this, will be one of the Arongest indications of approaching despotism. If we meanly and basely suffer any unprincipled Minifer to deprive us of this. we shall foon rank with those wretched flav and vaffals who are now groaning under their bondage in almost every part of Europe: and no flaves would be more unpitied, or deserve to be fo, than those of England."

Jan. 10. We have authentic accounts that the Ruffiante bave taken Siliftria by florm, after an obstinate defence, and a great flaughter on both fides. The lofs of the Russians was 7000 in the attempt, besides great numbers killed in the fortress, in which all the women vigoroufly exerted themselves. The place was given up to plunder for 6 days.

Jan. 11. The East India Company are making a settlement at Balambangar, being a situation central to the spice trade.

Jan. 19. The Turks are haftily railing 60 coo men at Constantinople, as a last effort against the Russans.

This day his Majefly made a speech from the Throne, the principal part of which was, that all his neighbours and allies entertained the same pacific sentiments as himself. BOSTON, March 10.

Sunday loft arrived in 9 weeks from London. Capt. Gorham, in the Brig Fortune, owned here, having on board 28; chefts of the India Company's Tea, configned to fundry perfons in this town.

The owners have published the following account, viz. That they gave express orders to their Correspondent in Lendon, that none of the East India Company's Tea, should, on any terms be shipped on board the faid vessel, bowever advantageous the offer, or great the loss on the voyage. That on the veffel's arrival at Boston, they, the owners, freely, and publicly declared their willingness to fend ber back, loaded as she was, to London. and run the rifk of her being seized; but that many of the goods on board being much wanted in Boston, it was proposed to take those out, and fend the tea only, back in the vessel; that she was accordingly reported at the Gustom House, and a permit obtained for landing all the goods except the tea; but that netwithstanding all that could be said to the Custom House officers, they absolutely refused to surnish the papers necessary to authorize her return with the tea on board.

This determination being publicly known, foon after, a number of men, baving the aprance of Indians, entered the weffel, took out the tea, emptied every cheft over board. and effectually destroyed the whole; after which they peaceably retired, without doing any further damage. A report currently prevails, we know not on what authority, that General Murray is appainted to the Government of this province, in the room of Governor Hutchinson-if fo, thro' our last three Governors, Excellency. will probably have rifen to the superlative PHILADELPHIA, March o. Extract of a letter from London. Dec. 20. "The people here, who are friends to America, approve much of your merchants conduct respecting the Tea which you expected from London, and are in great hopes that it will be all fent back, as the duty was to be paid with you."

Extract of a Letter from London, Dec. 20. "Your observations respecting the Tea duty are very just, and the Americans must be commended by all confisent Advocates for liberty and a limited monarchy, for the fagacity with which they differn, and the fpirit with which they affert their rights."

TOLEN out of the Subscriber's Stable at Stratford, in Connecticut, on Sunday Night, the 13th Inftant, a dark bay MARE, with a Star in her Forehead, about 14 4 Hands high, trots altogether, is used to a Carriage, her Sides somewhat galled with the Traces, and shod all round. She was bred by Mr. Gilbert Lyon, of Rye, and will be known in that Part of the Country. THADDEUS BURR. Fuirfield, March 15, 1774. 18 31 TO THE PUBLICK.

IN all probability the TRA-SHIP, which I has been long expected, is near at hand, and it is the noble and impatient defire of every fon of American freedom HERE, to fee the day, when they shall have the inexpressible satisfaction of gloriously affisting their ufter colonies, in establishing the freedom of their country. For, to their 1 m. MORTAL HONOVE be it faid, that no monopolizing company upon the face of the earth, with all their subtilty and iniquitous defigns; with all their own fophittry, or the craft and cunning of their most subtil Agents, shall ever be able to put their en-Baving schemes into execution .- SCHEMES which the very children of America can fee through, because felf evidently deftructive of the happiness and growing prosperity of this country.-And when such base defigns, become obvious to the understand. ings of ALL, they must, and ever will be opposed by ALL; a few venal Parafites only excepted.

Our fifter colonies, have gloriously defended the common cause of this country. A few persons have suspeded, that as this is a central province, ministerial maneurer might probably be exerted here with more fuccels. But superior opportunities mul never be thrown away, for they ought to be proportionably improved by as, as we have had more time to think of the machinations that have been formed against our general conflitutional liberty; But we truft, with God's bloffing, to fand our ground and as the day of tryal is now come, that we shall convince the whole American world that we are not flack and indolent, nor in the least degree unworthy, of being regiftered as a genuine fifter province ; fully perfunded, that RESOLUTION and UNIVERSAL HARMONY, will ever be the firm bafes of UNIVERSAL SUCCESS.

" Mrs. Wright, the ingenious American, continues to have a great refort of company of the first distinction, among whom, are fome of the principal nobility. Her per-formances are greatly admired; the has as much bufiness as the can possibly go through, and is in a fair way of making an ample fortune : Her frankness and humour are generally pleasing, and without giving the least offence to the greatest people, she indulges herfelf in the utmost freedom of speech, especially in defence of the rights and liberty of the American colonies, and in advantageous representations of them and their inhabitants. She has been much favoured by the King and Queen, who have frequently honoured her with their prefence, and familiar conversation; and his Majesty has feveral times fat for her to take his likeness. The figures of General Monkton and the counters of Huntington, lately fent over for New-York, by Capt. Winn, are allowed to be firiting representations of their present likenesses: The first of these personages is entitled to the highest esteem and respect of the colonies, on account of his warm and steady attachment to their interefts; and the last is remarkable for her piety and general benevolence of Heart."

English Grammar-School, At the Observer has heard of one, and there A may be others, who thought that his mentioning the stage, in his former observations, was intended as a reflection on the principal "Undernated of this possile institution; and, as no person can be more studious to avoid piving offence to individuals, who do not sufficiently rights of others, he can therefore, with pleasure, assure the publick, as well as the gentleman alluded to in those observations, that it was not intended as a resession on him, nor his former profession. Neither can he conceive that it is possible, fairly, to construe it as such; ethre that it is possible, fairly, to construe it as such; if it be duly considered that he, himself, in the advertisement there cited, first mentioned his having been "Improved by many advantageous circum"fiances."—By which was naturally understood the slage, it being pretty evident to all, it is imagined, that his "Composition" carries no marks of any other "Advantageous circumstances": nay, feveral persons have freely acknowledged, that it was replete with incongruides &c. And all other advantages were, and are, entirely unknown to the Obierver. Indeed, he hopes, on the gentleman's own account, that he may have had no other, than those which are commonly known; for, if he have, and should it transpire, will it not of course tend to depreciate both his synthetick and analytick abilities, in the esteem of the publick i—However, to put the matter beyond a doubt, he, again, assures the gentleman that, were his didactick knowledge and powers of elecution equal to his preten-fions, he would, old and du'l as he is, gladly receive infirmation from him, let him have acted in what capacity foever. This, it is hoped, will fa-Gentlemen " Undertakers" of THE English Grammar-School. Should any be defirous to know, in what you have separately and jointly infringed the rights of society, let them, if they have leistire and phlegnicatough, perust all your separate and conjoint publications; and there, with only the knowledge of general and definitive terms, they may clearly see, that your two last are not only very unfriendly, but infidiously injurious to the common rights of others; and that, in more instances than one. Otherwise, you might have gone unobserved, or at least, unexposed by the Observer: For, he had no manner of the other of you, as "Underwhee" of Medion to either of you, as "Undertaker" of MAN ENGLISH GRANHAR-SCHOOL" (which was the flyle of it, till very lately) but only as the "Undertaker," and " Undertakers" of THE English Grammar-School.

Mr. " Undertaker In the five first paragraphs of your advertisement on which I have already reasts some hely observation, and which is also now puter confidention, your having spoken in the singular confidention, to address you in the same

Ton fay " It has been climages that, with boys of a colerable genius, tweive pasts at age, is a proper time to begin the findly of axis "and With great deference" to find a Medio in to science". I beg force to alk you, whether this clause the grammablesty characters and fine that the promoter, by the pastition of in over their it. Her appearance, it is more than probable that you do to be a made in the nominative to the very Is?—I have give will not fay "Twelve years"— Yet, fuch a your configuration; the a very fittle knowledge of transposition would have put you right, in this respect. But then, how would it have agreed with " It has been thought," which is in the preter-perfect tents?—

In the fame paragraph, and feemingly, "With "great deference", you "Beg leave to suppose a "greater equality in the genius and powers of "children than 18 generally allowed",—Is it not more charitable to suppose that your Own grammar more charitable to suppose that your Own grammar was missaid, and that you meant to say " than was " generally tallowed formerly" Than it is to imagine, that a gentleman of your modesty could intend to infinuase, that he was a better judge of children's capacities, than the generality of the present enlightened age? And, notwithstanding outward oppearances, if you were not out, in the tense, is not the latter, the only obvious meaning of some the fatter, the only obvious meaning of your very modelt supposition?

Have you not also repeatedly softwated, that you were intimately acquainted with the truly learned and worthy Bishop of Oxford's Grammar? Bu, how does " If before that time he Is sent" &c. in the same paragraph as the foregoing, agree with his Lordship's rule? Does he not very familiarly determine, in the notes of that excellent fitte treatife the proper use of the fuhjunktive mode to be " in the cafe of a doubtful supposition, or concessio-" on", and use it accordingly in the preface to that helt of gramman, your own excepted ? Thefe are his words, " If this method were adopted" &cnot, wat .- And, in this manner it is wied by all our modern grammarians, of any note; as Johnson, HARRIS, PRIESTLY, RICE, KENRICK, &c. as well as it was formerly by Locke, Tillorcon, ATTERBURY, Pors and others.

" From an impartial view" of the next paragraph, does le not evidently appear, that you have need-leftly transposed, and careleftly, or ignorantly, omitted supplying the Ellipsis, which you pretend to teach ; and that, the latter part is not so very clearly expressed, as might have been expected, from a perfon who has been " improved by many advantageous circumftances"? Let the reader judge. The clause is thus, " Where they may be taught the princise ples of grommar in their own language, with a very future part, is really imagined to be no more than this, - Where they may be taught the principles of grammar, respecting the grammatical terms."

Or, nearly in the words of the poet.

That all your grammatical rules, But reach them how to name their tools. If this be not the true intent and meaning of this er abitivie" proposition, then, is the Obierver un

The most " important" olj di that present themfelves to " view," in the third paragraph, are egotifms, and ellipfes, both of which appear to be the genuint baipring of the fame illustrious " Under-

And the fourth, by it's features, is imagined to be a collateral relation of the other. However, fuch parts as bear the most striking likened to it, will be here fhown ; and, let the reader decide for himfelf. " With refp. to pronunciation, baving an " intimate ocquaintance with the original formation of the feveral founds in our language, be teaches, that with as much certainly, as others to firike the different " mufical founds on any inftrument. - As to the " ORTmay have been a typographical errour, it having been observed to be " organical formation" &c. in Mr. Rivington's paper; the first time is appeared there. Therefore, no observation will be made on it, unless you should hereafter avow it to be the for-mer. But your punctuation and ellipses, which are transferiled from Mcfirs. Holt's and Gaine's last pa-pers, afford the most convincing proofs of the inge-nious." Undertaker's" thereony abilities; another stri-king instance of which you have given the publick; and in the same paragraph, where you compliment yarfelf, on the improvements of your own taste, it, your attempting, nurse like, to put the reader to sleep, with the concordant sound of "Br ay".

Rare improvements indeed!

In the fixth paragraph, which is the last of those that you appear alone in, your phrascology is greatly admired; especially, when the "many advantageous circumstances", that have contributed to improve your paragraphs. tageous circumstances", that have contributed to improve your style, are considered. But a's admiration, on that account, crases, when your conscient stimpes is observed, in engaging "The assistance of an excellent writing master", whose publick specimens tally so exactly with his partner's eligant comp sition. Here, I take my leave or you, for the present, Mr. "Undertakes of THE ENGLISH GRAMMAR-SCHOOL.

GENTLEMEN " UNDERTAKERS" I had a tetty clear " View" of feveral " WITHS" before reached your joint flock of them ; the' they perhaps, were only scattered carelessly, as nurseries are fometimes fown; " With a view" of being transplanted occasionally. But, I have now got into a thicket of them. and im greatly perplexed —Can't 3: undertake, Gentlemen, to help one out?——
"First," here is "With, a view to correct" &c — Then " With their combinations" &c-" With their derivation" &c -- " With those &c. --" With the use" &cc .- With some general ines the ule &c .- " With it's application" &c --- [of equal space, which would produce so great a humber of Waths!

Why, Gentlemen, you are vallly Wordy as well as Withy! And in much less compass too! For, here are, within a line or two of each other, "Instructions" upon "Instructions"—And, in others, "every" upon "every," and "any" upon any", besides some other "abstruce" matters, that seem to have been brought together by the fortuitous influence of those two great luminaries, the "Physics-Mechanical Undividairs", and consequently not to be hastily solved by a submission Observer. However, I will consider them occasionally; perhaps, I may luckily sind a clew to some of them: haps, I may luckily find a clew to fome of them if I do, you may expect to her again fr m

AN OBSERVER P. S. The magisterial address, of Masses. Byerley and Day, to the publick, in this paper of last week, has been observed; and, as far as it relates to the Observer, will be duly noticed. The publick are desired to suspend their judgment, relative to the "false representations" &c. hinted as, by those said of Science, in that siteral publication; as the most exact extracts will be made from what the principal "Undertaker" has published, and compared with the Observer's first observations: when, he thinks, it will evidently appear to every one, that their penetrating and polite Gentlemen bars either missing the penetration and polite destinated that which there is no secondation for.

M. B. Their emendations, in Mr. Rivington's last paper, have been abserved; and will be faithfully pointed one, as often as made. It will also be more that they have not been envisely nor spreedictly attacked: but that, the Observer has been, and faill is, entirely actuated by the principle of self preservation; Txx, having been the agent of s.
